Lydia's Rest Home Closes Doors at 18

cannot say "it was closed", is too impersonal. There nothing impersonal about Lydia's Rest Home. It was a home of love, consideration, and comfort for the fifty members who have lived there. Some 80-year-old child-some happy teenagers in their early nineties. Some ill, suffering, keen minded and full. All of them mothered tenderly, devoutly as any mother could. Fed with delicious food, the best money could and Mrs. J. W. Smith invited to go with Mr. and Curtis Muir to Springville home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd for a pre-Thanksgiving dinner while Mrs. Mary of Idaho was in Utah. Mrs. B. Lindsay and children joined them for this happy time Saturday.

buy. Nicely cooked and artistically served.

It was a clean, fragrant home. Sunbeams shining through the South windows turned silver hair to gold and pained faces to smiles as it poured into the living room where they were sitting or peeked into bedrooms where they laid. Lake Creek flowing gently by the North side of the house lulled them to sleep.

There was laughter and gentle visiting by family members who were always welcome and by the "Rest Home Mothers" who cared for them night and day.

Lydia Hauscy dreamed of a lovely home for the aged. Opened it January 17, 1961. Several blessed women assisted her. Ethel Johnson who wished she could rock them in her arms — she loved them so much. Zella Blackley, Irene North, Elva Casper, Bonnie Casper and others who came for shorter periods, but all brought compassion to the precious ladies, doing more for them than their children could at home.

When thirty-four of their numbers were called home by death, they were mourned by their Rest Home Mothers as deeply and sincerely as by their own families. Always they each contributed one dollar to help buy clothes.

The reputation of this home spread and patients came from Idaho, California, Logan, Salt Lake, Tabby and, of course, our entire valley.

The House was too small — thousands of dollars were spent to meet requirements — five bedrooms, a kitchen, bath, utility room and new furnace were added.

Now the doors are silently closed, seven of the nine patients will go to the Wasatch Co. Hospital. Carol Duke is going with them to help them feel the tender "at home" feeling they have enjoyed.

Lydia, our community joins in gratitude for your dedicated devotion to your fellow men. May you know the joy that comes from unselfish service.

The record of the members of the Armed Forces of our great country shows that one or more of your family has responded to the call to arms. Heber City is conscious of its debt of gratitude to these brave sons who now dot the map of continents and the seven seas.

Little has been done, officially, to show that appreciation. Little, indeed, can be done to adequately demonstrate our deep thanks to our soldiers and sailors who are out there fighting to preserve OUR liberty, OUR freedom, and OUR homes.

We who are less affected shall not count as sacrifice the little things we are asked to go without; nor complain at the small things we are required to do. These appear as nothing when considered in the light of the "larger measure" THEY are giving.

The City Council pays tribute to you parents and wives who have given a son or husband to Uncle Sam. We know that despite your anxiety and your tears that you must feel a solemn pride to have made this contribution to guarantee the security of our firesides.

We enclose, herewith a certificate for your loved one, designed to prove that, though we cannot repay, we have not forgotten. We feel that the boys would want to preserve them. If your soldier or sailor is in the states you might wish to send the certificate to him. Otherwise it may be better to hold it. In any case we desire that, ultimately, it gets into his hands.

At this Christmas time we extend to you and yours our sincere good wishes. We look forward, with you, to the return of peace to a world now torn with war, to the day when your loved one shall be restored to you.

Sincerely yours,

Heber City Mayor and Councilmen
